

Helping Hand

It is said that “Charity begins at home”, but should not end there. First of all, the main reason for charity is to help those who are living very compromising lives. They don’t have the proper amenities like a person living a good life should have, thus they are helpless against their living conditions.

In line with the theme of UAE’ 40th National Day ‘Spirit of the Union’, the students of Al Ameen Private School showed the spirit of love and care and organized a charity event in school.

They showed their love and affection for the labour community by collecting small hygiene packs. The children and parents showed great amount of zeal and enthusiasm in collecting these packs.

These packs were delivered to the labourers working in ‘The Starwood Industries’ and the students of the publicity committee made it their responsibility to deliver the packs. The students were not only excited but brimming with joy to be able to bring a smile on the faces of those labourers.

Al Ameen Private School has always shown the commitment to improve the society in which we live and work; therefore we will always take initiatives to meaningfully improve the lives of the less privileged.

“True charity is the desire to be useful to others without thought of recompense”
